Session Descriptions and Presenter Information

Sergeant Terry Hall: Keynote

Terry Hall is a 38 year veteran of the Indianapolis Police Department who has worked the administrative, operations and investigative areas of law enforcement during his career. Sergeant Hall spent seven years in the IPD Sex Offense Branch and was the former director of the “Good Touch- Bad Touch Program” for prevention of child abuse and neglect. Sergeant Hall has attended training at the FBI Academy and is a certified law enforcement instructor for the State of Indiana. He was named IPD Officer of the Year and was also chosen IPD Investigative Officer of the Year for having the arrest and conviction rate for five consecutive years.

Sergeant Hall was the unit supervisor for several years in the Intelligence Unit, doing dignitary protection for the President, Vice President and other dignitaries visiting Indianapolis while working as a liaison with the Secret Service.

In the last ten years, his passion and dedication for protecting children has led to his training of over 20,000 prosecutors, judges, and law enforcement officers at the local, state, and federal levels, in regard to children’s issues. Sergeant Hall has also been actively involved with trainings at universities, law enforcement academies, national judicial conferences, department in-services, and was recently requested to instruct the Department of Human Services employees. As of January 2007 he has talked to over 600,000 people including children and adults while conducting a program he developed called Body Safety.

Sergeant Hall has appeared as an expert analyst on many television talk shows and his work has been chronicled in many law enforcement related magazines. His course has been certified by the Indiana Law Enforcement Training Board.

Keynote:

Child Abused By the Suspect and Then By the System:

This session will show that crimes against children are treated very lightly compared to adults. Abusing a child in this country is not a big issue to the judicial system.

Breakout Session:

Body Safety: Prevention that Works

This session will address what techniques child abusers discuss to gain children's trust. Discussion also includes prevention methods that are working.

“The Person I’m Going out with Scares Me”

This presentation will focus on understanding and preventing teen violence.

Did you know that approximately 1 in 5 female high school students report being physically and/or sexually abused by a dating partner?

This session will better prepare the participants to....

- Learn the myths and facts about dating violence
- Recognize warning signs of abuse
- Communicate with teenagers about dating violence

Sheila Day: Sheila Day LCSW has been a licensed clinical social worker for over 20 years. She is a Coordinator at The Child Protection Team in Peyton Manning Children’s Hospital at St. Vincent.

“Online Child Exploitation and Online Child Predators”

This PowerPoint presentation will lead participants through detailed discussions of online child predator cases that have occurred here in Indiana. This session will take you through the process of how to find an online child predator (it’s easier than you think) and how the team works to keep them off line with our children who enter online chat rooms.

Kurt Spivey/Jennifer Pyatt

Kurt Spivey: Kurt is a 14 year veteran of the Indianapolis Metro Police Department and a former member of the Indianapolis Police Department prior to the merger. He has been an Indianapolis Metropolitan Police SWAT Team member for 9 years. He has 5 years experience with child pornography and child exploitation cases.

Jennifer Pyatt: Jennifer is a Detective Sergeant with the Brownsburg Police Department. She has been a Police Officer for 13 years and a Detective for four years. Jennifer specializes in Crimes Against Women and Children and is a certified Indiana Law Enforcement Academy Instructor. Jennifer instructs Law Enforcement, including, but not limited to Police Officers, Prosecutors, Department of Children and Family Services Case Managers, Investigators, Social Workers, and Probation Officers. She is a certified Child Forensic Interviewer of children who have been victims of physical and/or sexual abuse. Jennifer has been a member of the Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force for approximately three years. She is currently the only member of the ICAC Task Force in Hendricks County and is called upon by the Hendricks County Prosecutor’s Office to investigate and assist all internet crimes against children in the county.

“Reframing Our Message”

Child abuse and neglect prevention is a difficult topic, and many people don't know where to begin. Most members of the public think that prevention means calling CPS or 911 when they see something happening. True prevention actually starts much earlier. Research from Prevent Child Abuse America and the Frameworks Institute can help all of us to learn ways we can prevent abuse and neglect before it has a chance to start.

Mary Armstrong-Smith, has worked in human services for over thirty years. During that time she brought 4-H to Indianapolis housing projects, coached urban youth on job search skills, taught life skills to middle school students, and directed a program for teen moms. Mary is the Community Partners Director for Prevent Child Abuse Indiana, and works with 600+ volunteers statewide to bring the message of primary prevention to Indiana communities.

“Questions NOT To Ask if You Suspect a Child is Being Abused: How Not to Sabotage a Criminal Case Against a Child Abuser or Molester”

Child care workers are often the first people to suspect abuse, or are the recipient of a child's first disclosure of abuse. This class will give you a quick outline of things you should and should not do to help ensure the strongest criminal case against an abuser. Holding adults who abuse or molest children responsible for their actions can be a tricky process. The legal system is designed to protect the rights of the accused. Those of us who work to protect the rights of the child are often faced with the somewhat daunting task of pursuing criminal cases based on a child's abuse disclosure. Usually there is little or no physical evidence and an adult perpetrator who denies anything inappropriate ever happened. There are a number of things you shouldn't ask. Find out what those are and help us develop strong criminal cases against those who would abuse our children.

Doug Cummins, is currently the Sex Crimes Deputy Prosecutor for Johnson County and a member of the Johnson County Sexual Assault Response Team. His current caseload includes all child abuse, child pornography, and all sex related crimes for both adults and children. He is currently helping to re-establish the Child Advocacy Center, destroyed in the flood of 2008. He formerly specialized in Domestic Violence cases, handling over one thousand felony and misdemeanor domestic related cases between 2006 and 2009. Doug has provided training throughout Johnson and surrounding counties on a variety of issues. In the past four years he has personally trained over 400 officers from various law enforcement agencies. These trainings have included various legal and investigative issues relating to the successful prosecution of offenders, including: general statistics and obstacles related to domestic violence, successful investigation and prosecution of domestic violence cases, stalking, annual legal updates on numerous criminal issues, and issues related to strangulation assaults and deaths.

“Recognizing Child Abuse: The Forensic Pediatrician’s Approach”

In this lecture, physical signs (or “red flags”) of child abuse will be reviewed. We will discuss which childhood injuries are normal, and which should raise concern for abuse. There will be an emphasis on Shaken Baby Syndrome (aka Abusive Head Trauma), and why its diagnosis is so commonly missed. We will briefly cover ways to prevent Shaken Baby Syndrome.

Dr. Tara L. Harris is a forensic pediatrician at Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis, IN. She attended the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where she earned a Bachelor of Science in Biology and a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology. She then earned her medical degree from Indiana University School of Medicine. She completed a residency in pediatrics at Riley Hospital for Children, where she is now further sub-specializing in the area of child abuse and neglect. Dr. Harris is very interested in research efforts to better understand and help prevent child abuse. She has been appointed by the American Academy of Pediatrics to serve on a national committee on abuse and neglect and to serve as co-editor of their newsletter on child abuse-related issues.

“Taking Care of Ourselves So We Can Take Care of Others”

Don’t consider yourself selfish just because you occasionally put your needs before others. Instead, ask yourself how practicing self-care can help you be better and kinder to others.

Donna Moore is a Violence, Intervention and Prevention Educator. Donna has been a part of several agencies including the Health and Hospital Corporation, the Marion County Sheriff’s Department, and is now an Independent Contractor who speaks on violent crimes, child abuse awareness, intervention and prevention subjects. She has studied at the Indiana Law Enforcement Academy and is an ACA Certified Law Enforcement Instructor, been through NOVA – National Crisis Team Training, went through the Harvard Medical School and studied Childhood Memory and Trauma as well as attending University of Alabama for Child Sexual Abuse Intervention Specialist training. Donna has received several awards including the Outstanding Service Award from the Federal Justice Department as well as the Indiana Victim Assistance Network.
